A note from Lisa:

Most estate planning attorneys didn't choose this field to feel like they're on a production line.

But somewhere along the way, for a lot of people, it starts to look like:

- back-to-back files with lots of follow-up
- constant drafting

- little time to actually connect with clients, and a schedule that quietly follows you home

If you've been practicing for a while, you probably know exactly what that feels like.

Our Bluffton, SC office is growing, and we're adding a client-focused estate planning & elder law attorney (5+ years experience).

This role is intentionally structured for someone who:

- enjoys sitting across from clients and guiding decisions
- wants to build real, ongoing relationship; not just close matters
- is ready to spend less time in documents and more time in conversations designing the right path forward
- appreciates being part of a team that happily shares the load

You would be:

- leading consultations (12-15 per week on a set schedule)
- advising on trust-based planning strategies and long term care options
- helping guide families through probate administration when needed
- staying connected with clients as part of a long-term relationship model

And importantly, your work is supported by systems and team members who handle much of the backend execution.

A few things attorneys tend to notice quickly about this role:

- The pace is intentional. You can focus without feeling constantly rushed
- Your time outside the office is actually your own
- You're not doing this alone. There's real team support with an incredible administrative and paralegal team
- Your experience in working with clients is recognized and valued

We're expanding in Bluffton, SC and serve a growing, engaged community. We're also active locally, so if you enjoy being out in the community (not just behind a desk), that's a plus.

South Carolina bar license and notary public required. Value-based compensation with a strong salary and benefits.

If you've ever thought, "there has to be a better way to practice than this," don't wait until this opportunity closes. Feel free to email me confidentially at lisa@lawyerlisa.com.

Let's grab lunch or meet at the office to see what a collaboration could look like.
